

Online teaching and learning in action

A workshop module for staff

Online teaching and learning in action is about applying your learning in other modules to your own teaching context. The aim here is to determine how online strategies could be used in your teaching - in an effective and efficient way.

The module will help you to:

- Reflect on your experience thus far
- Be aware of the strengths, limitations and pitfalls of teaching online
- Consider the skills required of the effective online designer/teacher
- Explore options for the effective use of online teaching in your context
- Identify issues and questions relevant to your future practice
- Identify ways to further develop your skills.

Key strengths of online teaching

- Supports collaboration
- Enables interaction
- Is learner centered
- Creates social presence
- Provides immediate feedback
- Delivers rich information / media
- Promotes flexible learning
