Course Duration: Minimum 1 yrs, Maximum 3 yrs.

Course Contact (faculty or School): (03) 6226 6200 or 1800 687 120

Introduction

This on-campus 1 year full-time or 3 years part-time course is offered by the Faculty of Commerce at the Hobart and Launceston campuses.

Admission & Prerequisites

Candidates for the Graduate Diploma in Information Management program will be required to have a 3 year degree from an accredited university, and have a basic knowledge of information systems and information modelling. This knowledge may be gained from self-study and professional experience, or by attending both of the units BSA101 Business Information Systems and BSA102 Information Modelling & Infrastructures. Subject to demand, The School of Information Systems offers a three week long summer school during January--February to allow students to gain the prerequisite knowledge contained in BSA102 Information Modelling & Infrastructures.

Objectives

The course aims to:

- a. equip students with the fundamental knowledge, skills and capabilities to function effectively as information managers;
- b. give graduates a good understanding of the roles that information plays in society, organisations and for individuals and the need for information resources to be managed effectively;
- c. develop professional skills and appropriate attitudes in the areas of the support of clients engaged in information retrieval and usage, and all aspects of the careers of information managers;
- d. provide an understanding of the principles and practice of information organisation, use of information management systems and the positions that information managers play in public and private organisations;
- e. meet the professional standard for qualifications required by The Australian Library and Information Association (ALIA) for teacher librarians, general librarians and information managers.

Career Outcomes

Graduates of the Graduate Diploma in Information Management could expect to find employment as librarians, teacher librarians and information managers. Completion of the course allows graduates to seek membership of ALIA.

Professional Recognition

Recognised by ALIA

Course Structure

Course units in the Graduate Diploma in Information Management are of 12.5% weighting. The course has three distinct streams depending on the professional outcome sought by the candidate. Each stream consists of 6-7 core units and 1-2 elective units. Four units are common to all three streams: BSA203 Information Management, BSA303 Management of Information Systems, IST4104 Information Resources and Services and IST4106 Information Organisation. The latter two units are available via distance education from Edith Cowan University. For students enrolled in the Teacher Librarian or General Librarian stream, library exemplars will be included in the assessment process and in projects to satisfy ALIA's requirements.

Professional placement is managed within IST4104 Information Management and Resources. Edith Cowan University will be responsible for the process of practicum placement, supervision and assessment through this unit.

Master of Information Systems - C7A (MIS)

Campus(es) Offered: Hobart:

Course Duration: Minimum 2 yrs, Maximum 4 yrs.

Course Contact (faculty or School): (03) 6226 6200 or 1800 687 120

Introduction

Course coordinator: Dr Christy de Salas.

The Master of Information Systems is offered on the Hobart campus by the School of Information Systems. The course may be completed on a full-time basis in 3 semesters of study. Coursework is completed in semesters 1 and 2, and the MIS Project is completed during a third semester. Part-time enrolment in the degree can be completed in a maximum of 8 semesters or 4 years.

The Master of Information Systems is a professional, applied degree which specialises in topics related to the management of information systems. Project work within the degree will equip the students with appropriate methodological and analytical skills, as well as requiring students to apply information systems management theory to practical problem solving and case work.

Admission & Prerequisites

Candidates for the MIS program will be required to satisfy one of the following: (a) a three-year degree, or combination of degrees and diplomas, from an accredited university, which include a major in Information Systems or a closely related discipline, such as Computer Science, Business Information Technology, Business Computing, Information Management, Information Science or Library Science, with the achievement of at least a Credit standard average result in that degree; or (b) a 3 year degree from an accredited university, and a least three years of relevant professional experience; or (c) have significant relevant experience in the areas of management and information systems, but fail to meet criteria (a) or (b). Candidates satisfying criterion (c) may be admitted under exceptional circumstances, and be granted a provisional entry status. Such provisional entry status will be dependent on the candidate's successful completion of the equivalent of one semester of full-time study.

Objectives

The course aims to provide --

- * professional, postgraduate level education to existing managers, and those seeking to move into positions of information systems managers;
- * management of information systems education which is at the level of world best practice in its currency, applicability and relevance to the IS profession;
- * graduates of the course with knowledge, skills and understanding about:
 - the relationships of information and information technology to organisational needs;
 - current management practice in the development of information systems, their use and associated policy formulation and analysis;
 - the value of research, critical thinking and effective communication in the management of information systems.

Career Outcomes

Associate membership of the Australian Computer Society. Graduates of the Master of Information Systems could expect to find employment as a business analyst, database analyst, systems analyst, IT project manager, IT manager, information manager, database administrator, IT administrator or manager, telecommunications manager, IT consultant, electronic commerce or electronic business consultant.

Articulation From Course

Up to four units credit may be given for appropriate previous study.

Course Structure

Course units within the Master of Information Systems are of 12.5% weighting and comprise 27 contact hours over the period of one semester.

The degree consists of 2 semesters of coursework with a total weighting of 100%; and a MIS Project, including the production of a thesis, weighted at 50% and completed over a single semester.

The coursework consists of four compulsory core units and four elective units as outlined in the Schedule.

Master of International Business - C7G (MIB)

Campus(es) Offered: Hobart:

Course Duration: Minimum 1 yrs, Maximum 2 yrs.

Course Contact (faculty or School): (03) 6226 1774

Introduction

This 2 semester or equivalent on-campus course is offered by the Faculty of Commerce at the Hobart campus and is conducted with a combination of traditional timetabling, weekend mode and intensive mode and/or flexible delivery as appropriate. The course is full fee paying. Fees cover tuition, all study materials (with the exception of text books) and costs associated with the study sessions.

All units are subject to formal assessment normally including assignments and a final examination.

Admission & Prerequisites

The Faculty of Commerce may accept as a candidate for the Master of International Business:

- (i) A person who has completed an undergraduate degree of an Australian higher education institution or the equivalent standard in any other institution;
- (ii) A person who has satisfactorily completed the Graduate Certificate of International Business of the University of Tasmania or an equivalent award of another Australian higher education institution.

For entry into all courses, international students must provide:

- * Evidence of proficiency in the English language. An overall band score of 6+ in the IELTS test or a TOEFL score of 575 or more with a written English score of 5+ is the normal method of demonstrating English language proficiency.

Objectives

This course aims to provide participants with the knowledge and skills required to practise as a manager in any context and in the specialised area of international business. Emphasis will be placed on providing specialist knowledge in international business in a timely manner while taking account of existing tertiary qualifications.

Career Outcomes

Graduate studies have an important place in management development. They offer individuals aspiring to either general management or senior functional management roles the opportunity to develop competencies relevant as a manager in the area of international business. Emphasis will be placed on the determination and assessment of 'best practice' approaches to management in the international business context, informed by the application of appropriate and sound theoretical foundations drawn from a variety of interdisciplinary sources.

Articulation From Course

Graduates of the Graduate Certificate of International Business may receive full credit.

Course Structure

To qualify for the MIB, the candidate must complete the 8 core units.
