Following from the signing of an Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the University of Tasmania and Association of Indonesian Nurse Education Centre (AINEC), the University of Tasmania designed a course to fulfill the needs of its Indonesian partners in developing more Masters prepared nurses in higher education in Indonesia. The Master of Clinical Leadership was the result of this partnership.

Through this course, Indonesian nurses will complete a range of units focusing on leadership policy and practice, legal and ethical issues, project management and quality services. The course is designed to develop an understanding of the Australian healthcare system, clinical leadership, and research skills for students to implement within their area of work in Indonesia. While much of the course will be taught online, face-to-face tutorials will be offered with experienced nursing lecturers, many of whom are qualified at the doctoral level. Students will also take part in a program of clinical lectures and exposure to clinical practice in parallel with the course content.

TEACHING PATTERN
Duration: 3 semesters (1.5 years) full-time
Location: A combination of online and face-to-face learning in Hobart, Tasmania, Australia
Language requirements: IELTS 6.5 or OET overall score of B
Units: The course consists of 10 units (totaling 150%)
Early exit points: Students may exit with a Graduate Certificate in Clinical Leadership (Nursing) on completion of four units, or a Graduate Diploma of Clinical Leadership (Nursing) on completion of eight units.

LIVING IN TASMANIA
Tasmania is the perfect place to live and study - a peaceful, scenic state that’s big enough to support vibrant cities and thriving opportunities for study and work, but small enough to be friendly, and offer a high quality lifestyle. Tasmania is roughly the same size as Sri Lanka or Ireland and has a population of half a million people. It’s only a quick direct flight or ferry trip to the main population centre of Australia (on the Eastern seaboard) and serviced daily by major airlines.

Specific accommodation has been identified for you that will allow you some security of the university environment, as well as respecting your cultural needs. For more information on accommodation please visit www.utas.edu.au/accommodation.

The University of Tasmania offers a high level of pastoral care including religious support and prayer rooms. For more information on student support please visit: www.utas.edu.au/international-support.

CONTACT US
FACULTY OF HEALTH
Course Coordinator: Juliet Sondermeyer
Phone: +61 3 6226 4695
Email: Juliet.Sondermeyer@utas.edu.au
Web: www.utas.edu.au/health/clinical-nursing-indonesia

* CRICOS registration pending.