Xth Australasian Bryophyte Workshop
Manjimup, Western Australia
Sunday 30th August to Saturday 5th September 2009
First Circular

The Xth Australasian Bryophyte Workshop will be held from 30th August to 5th September 2009. It will take place in Manjimup, Western Australia.

About the Workshop

Accommodation will be in shared style facilities at the Perup Ecology Centre found in the heart of the 52,000 hectare Tone-Perup Nature Reserve. Towels, linen and bedding are not provided. All meals will be catered for. Further details on the accommodation and facilities will be provided in the second circular.

There will be daily field trips to a variety of vegetation types ranging from granite outcrops, wandoo woodland, lakes and swamps, and jarrah (Eucalyptus marginata) forest. A slightly longer drive will get you to some tall karri (Eucalyptus diversicolor) forest.

Time will be set-aside for special interest groups and as usual there will be some evenings devoted to talks and poster presentations. An area will also be set up with microscopes (compound & stereo) to allow for detailed examination and identification of collections.

Getting Here

There are daily flights into Perth from several Australian capital cities (Melbourne, Sydney & Brisbane). We will arrange a pick up time (from Perth airport) on Sunday afternoon (30th August) approximately 2pm in organized transport arriving at Manjimup at approx 4.30pm. We plan to return to Perth on the Saturday morning (5th September) at approx 12am.

Approximate Cost

The cost in Australian dollars is between $500-600. This includes accommodation, all meals and transport to and from Manjimup and during the workshop.

Plant Collections

Collecting will be possible in accord with our permit conditions.
